Hey hi hello <3

The magazine you're holding in your hand (or reading online!) is the 8th edition of LACKT, and wow, it's been a blast working to create this issue <3

The Holidays are just around the corner, which means another term is coming to its end, and with that our business year· And what a year we've had! We have had the pleasure of photographing and filming everything from Hurterimästerskapen and "NOlle-p", to various different parties and sittings· Fun!

Soon it's time for us in MU25 to pass the baton to our dear children· But before that, we hope that you have the time to sit down, enjoy some good company, a good beverage, and have a good time while reading!

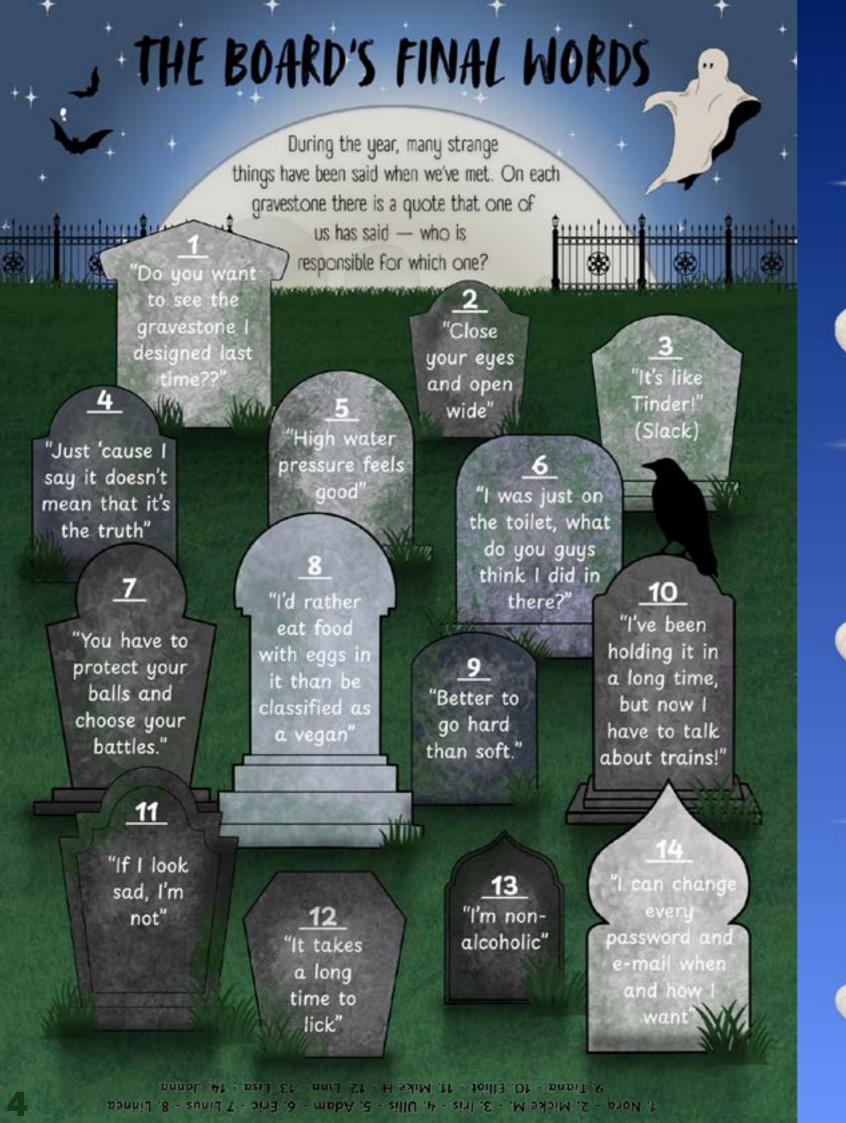

Happy reading! MU through Katja Kovala

Thores Philosophical Moment

To glare very angrily at an annoying kid while out in town.

To prank a person with dementia?

To snap your fingers at a server when you've been waiting ten minutes for your bill?

To borrow someone else's used underwear?

IS IT SO WRONG...

To eat the last of something, but return the empty packaging?

To answer on FaceTime while sitting on the toilet?

In the head's of UU

Sometimes, thought processes get a little mixed up, and that is true for UU as well. Here comes a few of these thoughts and your task is to match the thoughts with the right person.

Your Worst Electric Scooter Accidents

Was on my way home after Kårallen and planned to stop by McDonald's for some food. Took an e-scooter home and thought I'd "try closing my eyes a little" while riding. Ended up crashing straight into a lamppost - me, the scooter, and the food all went flying.

I couldn't stop my scooter when I was trying to brake on campus, so I ended up running alongside it while it kept going on its own!??!! It all ended with me knocking over a bunch of bikes in a crowd of people.

Sometime after midnight in November last year, MU Elliot and I were heading from Kårallen on our own Rydes. Out of nowhere, he just drives straight into me and we both end up in a ditch...

Took a Voi, drove up to my friend, let go of the throttle (wasn't even touching it) but it just kept going - straight into my friend. It became a demon Voi. Almost fell because I stupidly kept holding onto the handlebars.

On a mission to bring home my drunk food (kebab wrap), I crashed into another rider and dropped my wrap.

Let me present the never-ending journey from Ryd to Kårallen, when me and my dear committee mother (no names mentioned) tried to save money and the environment by sharing a scooter. After about 10 minutes of struggling, we finally took off, but didn't even make it 20 metres before our first obstacle: the curb. We fell. Simple as that.

We got back up and kept going, only to meet our next challenge: a ditch.

We stood there for way too long, and when we finally tried to continue, our beloved scooter refused to join us. It had died. With four swollen knees, we limped all the way to Kå-rallen and danced the night away.

Was heading home from Flamman after getting absolutely wasted. Forgot my bike, took a Ryde. Woke up to my neighbor (who shall remain unnamed... Noah) standing over me asking if I was okay... Apparently, I'd been passed out outside Coop Vallaplan for about two minutes according to witnesses: (Ambulance picked me up later and took me to the ER - everything was fine!:) Got placed in the psych ward for detox for a few hours before I realized I wasn't actually required to stay. Went home, went to bed at 7:30 a.m., and took a long sleep-in.

I was riding home from a Halloween party with a few friends. We were going calmly along the sidewalk when my friend (in front of me) suddenly fell on absolutely nothing. I, riding full speed right behind him, had no choice but to brace for pain. My Voi slammed into his scooter and stopped abruptly, while I continued flying forward. I soared through the air and smacked straight into the asphalt like a fly hitting a window. Hit the ground with a groan and a whimper, but thanks to the massive amount of Jägermeister consumed that night, it didn't hurt much. Just a few scrapes on my hands and shoulders, so I hopped back on and kept going.

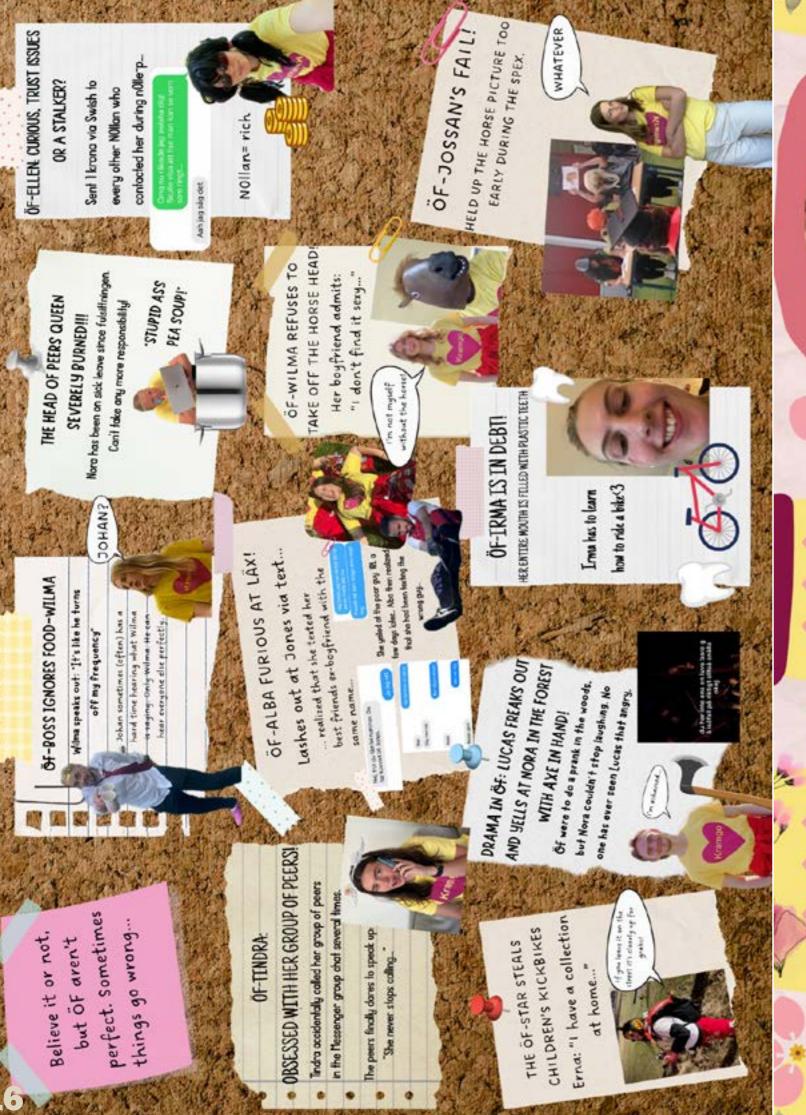

Don't fully remember the crash itself, but here's what I've been told:

Was riding full speed down a main road on my way from Vallastaden to Kårallen. For some reason, I let go of the scooter with one hand and hit a rock straight on.

The scooter flew up onto the sidewalk, and I remember thinking "don't hit your head, Mom's gonna be so mad", and then I hit my head. Apparently, I flew several meters and rolled along the ground. Ended up with a decent bruise on my cheek that hurt for months, and some scrapes and soreness. The worst part though: a few minutes after the crash I hear a voice: "Are you okay, girls?" There's an older lady on the other side of the road who saw EVERYTHING. But hey, we still went on to Kårallen.

THE RETURN OF "MASTERCHEF USELIUS"

After two years of waiting, I've made my comeback - and my cooking skills have evolved.

Two years ago, I cooked my incredible carbonara in the fourth version of LÄCKT, only to my great shock to receive CRITICISM!?! But now I've challenged myself to cook one of MU25's signature dishes - Elliot's Korean BBQ bowl with rice.

Recipe for 2 people:

- -About 250 g of mixed ground meat
- -A good amount of pre-shredded pointed cabbage and carrot mix
- -2 portions of jasmine rice
- -Korean BBQ sauce I just eyeballed the
- -1 red onion (I accidentally used yellow onion, but it tasted just as good)
- -Broth- the recipe didn't specify which kind, so I used chicken broth. Maybe not the right choice, but it was tasty
- -A small splash of soy sauce
- -Some salted peanuts for serving
- -1 avocado for serving (I didn't notice it was supposed to be in the recipe, so it didn't make the cut)

Martins answer:

can confirm that Masterchef Uselius is back, and this time my expectations were higher than the carbonara from two years ago. When the rice cooking was delegated to a rice cooker, a sense of calm spread through my body – at least there would be rice for dinner! However, Uselius looked confident in the kitchen. He was focused, methodical, and had a twinkle in his eye. The scent of ready to eat. BBQ filled the air, and everything felt under control. When the first bite landed, I realized: this wasn't just food – it was redemption in a bowl.

Rating: *** - four flames of flavor and redemption. You might be wondering what the maximum score was: honestly, I don't even know myself – but it sure was good!

To get an honest verdict on how good my cooking really is, I asked none other than Mr. Pub, Martin Säfström, to act as the judge

Instructions:

- -Rinse the jasmine rice and start cooking it. I have a rice cooker, so I used that (I can't cook rice in a pot).
- -Chop up a whole yellow onion and throw it in a hot frying pan with some oil together with the ground meat. Let it fry for a few minutes, until it looks good.
- -Add the Korean BBQ sauce and mix. Then add a bit of water, soy sauce, and the
- -Let it simmer on low heat until you're

To let everyone know whether I'm actually a good chef or not. Martin gets the chance to share his thoughts on how I performed during the cooking and how it all tasted.

The Dramaturgical Whales A Story

Once upon a time, in the kingdom of LSEK, a new year began. Snow covered the campus, the coffee was hot, and in the distance a hopeful:

"See you in Key!" could be heard.

In January, the lively kultingarna were born, ready to take on student life. The wise Överfaddrarna returned to guide them, and LL stepped forward to create order in Stuff. Soon followed mini-NOILE-P, where laughter, games and new friendships filled the days.

When winter released its grip, Kravallentin came, arranged by LAX. Love flowed among glitter and dance – some found each other, others just the way to McDonalds.

Then awaited Hurterimästerskapen, led by LUS. Here, the students fought with headbands and will some ran, others cheered, everyone participated with their heart

When spring came, all students were called to FLAX, the party everyone talked about. There was music, laughter and dancing until dawn - proof that LSEK was at its strongest when celebrating together.

But then came... summer. The campus fell silent. The overalls were hung up. The students wandered around without parties, without LSEK.

"How are we going to cope?" they asked, while the days were filled with work and longing.

As autumn approached, the fanfare was finally heard: NOLLE-P was back! With it came singing, laughter and the mythical FOUL, who tested both courage and patience. The new NOLLAN stepped into the story, accompanied by Overfaddrarna. The campus was once again filled with life, kravalls and friendship — the LSEK spirit burned brightly.

When darkness fell, a calmer time began. It was time for mingling and meetings, led by STYRET, VAL, IR, ALU and UU. Here the students found their place in the kingdom, their committee and their role.

At the last gathering of the year, the annual meeting, new heroes were elected. Old ones were thanked, new ones took over.

Thus ended the year, and a new one began.

Because in LSEK the story never ends – it just starts again every January, when the coffee is steaming again and someone whispers:

PANDORAS BOX WITH MU25

Katja, do you think you're slipping on a shrimp sandwich? Jonna, why do you run the hotel like a dictatorship?

Linnea, do you really need to have hair extensions to have a place in the final? Matilda, do you have an advantage in the game, due to your refereeing experience?

Thore, is it true that you are the face of the hotel, and the man with all the answers?

Elliot, does music have to be your entire personality at the hotel?

NOLLANS HUNGOVER GUIDE

- 1. Wake up. Regret everything. Drink water.
- 2. Stare at the ceiling. Feel existential crisis.
- 3. Take a painkiller. Pray to the gods.
- 4. Watch Netflix. Avoid bright lights.
- 5. Drink more water. Keep hoping.
- 6. Take a power nap. Wake up hungover (again!)
- 7. Order a pizza, don't regret the decision.
- 8. Check your phone. Finding nothing but anxiety.
- 9. Text your friends. Have collective panic.
- 10. Try to remember last night.
  Regret it immediately.

Origami using exampapers You'll need:

the latest resit exam, tears, & some hope

- 1. Pick the paper that hurt the most
- 2. Fold it into a swan (or roll it into a ball, which is nice too!)
- 3. Place it on a shelf & admire your art!

Discolamp

You'll need:

a bottle, water & glitter

- 1. Fill the bottle with water & glitter
- 2. Twist on the cork, & shake
- 3. Place the bottle in front of a lamp
- 4. Boom! A at-home-disco for 0,3 seconds

Ice coffee

You'll need: Coffee, icetray, & freezer

- 1. Pour coffee in a suitable icetray
- 2. Put the tray in the freezer
- 3. When frozen: add your coffee cubes to a glass
- 4. Add more coffee (or milk) & enjoy!

At-home-spa

You'll need:

- a tub, warm water, & maybe bubbly soap
- 1. Fill, and then place the tub on the floor
- 2. Dip your feet in. Close your eyes & imagine being at the spa
- 3. For extra luxury: cucumber on the eyes
- 4. Reality check: you're at home...

Course literature shelf

You'll need:

course literature you've never opened

- 1. Stack them in piles
- 2. Place a board (or more books) on top
- 3. Voilà: a shelf, a table, a stool. All in one!

Dangerous stability, but 100% student aesthetics!

- 1. Write things like "study", "eat", "procrastrinate", "anxiety" on the notes
- 2. Put them up in a calendar shape
- 3. Rearrange as life happens
- 4. At last: 90% of the notes will be "anxiety"
